Rigidity --- Convenience --- Economy

The BORDEN POLICY makes possible the most Scientifically Constructed and Practical Bookstacks at REASONABLE PRICES

The manufacturing and marketing policy of this company is guided today by the principles formulated years ago by its president, William Alanson Borden in these words:

"It is my intention to make a Book-stack as cheaply as good construction will permit, and sell it to my fellow members of the Library Profession at a fair advance over the absolute cost. I do not enter the field to exploit libraries, but to help them."

The selling price of bookstacks, as is the case with other manufactured articles, is based upon the cost of materials, the cost of fabrication, and overhead. The cost of the steel used forms but a small part of the selling price; the cost of fabrication a somewhat larger part. It is the overhead—in some lines of business as high as 200 per cent—which is so often the cause of high prices.

The Borden policy of low overhead costs and quantity production, makes possible a superior product at a price no higher than that usually charged for less desirable book stacks.

Mr. Borden asks librarians to write him regarding their stack problem—will be pleased to give help in solving any existing condition.

The Borden Cantilever Bookstack

is the invention of William Alanson Borden, a librarian of 30 years' experience, perfected by the engineering force of Post & McCord, of New York, who are among the world's foremost experts in steel construction.

The Borden bookstack, being scientifically trussed and braced, is exceptionally strong. It is self-contained; it does not depend upon the walls of the building for strength and rigidity.

The shelves are removable, interchangeable and adjustable. Adjustment is simple and easy, as the shelves can be raised or lowered one end at a time.

Borden Bookstacks save space which gives increased capacity. They are easy to set up, take down and remove; are attractive in appearance.

These are their points of superiority. Send for descriptive booklet.

FOREWORD

The AMERICAN LIBRARY DIRECTORY, 1923, is an effort to supply a much needed reference volume in the library field. Such a list was the principal feature of the American Library Annuals, issued in past years, the last volume in 1917-1918. The present list is more than double the length of that list, and endeavors to cover more types of libraries while omitting detailed statistics in regard to their collections.

The headquarters of the American Library Association placed its address lists unreservedly at the disposal of the editors, and equal thanks are due to its officials and to the several state commissions which have so cheerfully given help as to the entries in their respective fields.

All lists are arranged alphabetically by state, territory or province, and, under these headings, alphabetically by city or town.

The division of public libraries includes the state libraries and library commissions, which are printed at the head of each state list. County libraries are listed under the place where centered, with cross references from name of the county. In such a state as California where the county system has reached its highest development this plan of entry leads to the omission of the names of some important towns whose libraries are branches of the county system. The list includes all public libraries which serve a population of over 1,000 people. In some cases service goes beyond the town in which the library is located. The limitation to 1,000 population is arbitrary and causes the omission of some progressive libraries, but some limitation was necessary. The name of each library is intended to be that by which it is incorporated and by which it should be addressed. Librarians' names are given when the information was furnished. In cities of the larger size, the heads of departments are listed.

The section of libraries of Colleges and Normal Schools includes all institutions of higher education. In some cases, libraries of this character find their entry under the classification of Special Libraries, and to this list, also, reference should be made. Especially this is true as to the department libraries of large universities which may be scattered under various roofs and even in different cities.

For the High School list the editors are largely indebted to the work of Charlotte E. Smith, librarian of the Carter Harrison High School, Chicago, who had recently completed a survey of this field in the interests of the National Education Association and the School Libraries Department of the American Library Association. As in the section of Public Libraries, the populations of cities and towns are given as an indication of the size and importance of the schools. Legislation and other causes have brought great variations in the development of High School libraries in the different states.

The Special Library in the field of business is of recent growth and provides more difficulties for the editors than any of the other groups. In addition to using the survey made by the Special Libraries Association, under the general direction of Dorsey W. Hyde, Jr., the list has had the benefit of revisions in the large cities from associations of special librarians.

The group of Miscellaneous Libraries includes largely the charitable and correctional institutions and other collections reported from various states which could not be accurately classified under the main divisions.

It is expected that this Directory will have extensions and revisions in the future and other library material such as bibliographies or library work may be then included, as in the old Library Annuals, or made the basis of other handbooks.

SNEAD STANDARD BOOKSTACK

Selected in competition and giving satisfactory service in the majority of the important university, college and public libraries in this country.

SPECIAL FEATURES NOT FOUND IN ANY OTHER BOOKSTACK

All parts immediately accessible for cleaning.

No inaccessible dust pockets.

Compact stack uprights of grey iron providing greater book capacity per given length of stack.

"Open Bar" adjustable shelves, lighter, collects less dust and more easily adjusted than any other shelf.

The use of "oversize" adjustable shelves at any desired height.

All fixed parts of the construction finished after erection with air drying enamel.

Finished to match your particular conditions.

Stacks can be taken down and reused in any re-arrangement without alteration or reinforcement.

Greater adaptability to future extension both horizontal and vortical.

The interlocking steel book support, the most rigid and satisfactory support in use.

We particularly recommend our "oversize" fixed bottom shelf construction arranged to accommodate larger volumes and the protected vertical deck slit; see Figures 2 and 106 of our catalogue.

Let us help you with your stack problems. No obligation for any service we can render.

Our 271 page clothbound catalogue contains many plans and illustrations of library building, and technical articles on library and stack construction written by leading experts. This book will be sent free on request to the Librarians, Architects and Owners who have need for same.

CHIVERS' REBINDING:

A Grosset edition of "Freckles," in our leather back binding, was loaned ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY TIMES. It is still in fairly good condition. It has been sent to us by a librarian for exhibition purposes.

Another librarian writes: "EVERY ONE OF THE TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY BOOKS YOU BOUND FOR US LOOKS READY TO BEGIN LIFE OVER AGAIN."

Send for our latest schedule of prices for binding books and magazines in Native Tanned Niger Leather and also in Holliston Buckram.

NEW BOOKS

In supplying new books to Public Libraries we deduct from the published price the usual discount and add the cost of the binding, depending on the size of the book and the style of binding ordered. We bind new books in half leather; in full Holliston buckram, and in our reinforced method—a combination of our sewing and the original publishers' covers.

BUY NEW BOOKS BOUND IN CHIVERS' ONCE FOR ALL METHODS. Send for our catalog and special lists.

WE supply NEW FICTION in our binding on the day of publication, if the order reaches us at least one week in advance of date of issue.

Holliston Library Buckram

is the recognized standard for library bindings—for it has been proven conclusively the best wearing binding fabric to be had.

Librarians may further lengthen its life and maintain the neatness of their books by the application of BARCO, the new book varnish. Covers so treated are waterproof, mar proof and scratch proof.

Reference and shelf numbers applied in ink and covered with Barco will not wash or rub off but are "on for keeps."
